

COURT RULING PROTECTS EHS* PHILIPPE TRIBAUDEAU FROM EVICTION

On 22 February 2024, the Court of Dignes les Bains issued a summary order recognising the right to housing in situ and the right to respect for health in the face of extreme electro-hypersensitivity.

This is good news! The Zones Blanches association (AZB), founded by European deputy Michèle RIVASI, is delighted with this initial court ruling, which protects Philippe TRIBAUDEAU from eviction and contributes to the recognition of electro-hypersensitive people.

"The judge reminds us that the right to property is neither general nor absolute, and that it must be reconciled with the right to health. He emphasised the State's responsibility to ensure that its citizens have a right to housing and a right to respect for their health. For me, this decision is recognition of electrohypersensitivity and the toxicity of radio waves", said Philippe TRIBAUDEAU, an EHS sufferer and member of AZB's Board of Directors, following the announcement of the ruling.

A refugee for 9 years on a plot of land free of electromagnetic waves belonging to the State's private domain, threatened with eviction by the ONF, Philippe TRIBAUDEAU has just won his first major battle against the installation of a relay antenna close to where he lives.

In response to the ONF's arguments that Philippe TRIBAUDEAU should be evicted on the grounds of an unlawful disturbance of public order, Philippe TRIBAUDEAU referred to article 1 of the Charter of the Environment, a text of constitutional value incorporated into French law in 2005, which affirms "the right to live in a balanced environment that respects health", EHS included!

Given the failure of the government to provide suitable alternative accommodation, the right to health of individuals, which is also defined by the Declaration of Human Rights, the Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights and the Convention on the Rights of the Child, is a key issue.

Rights and the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities.

The Zones Blanches association is delighted to have accompanied Philippe TRIBAUDEAU to this first court ruling on the recognition and protection by the State of electro-hypersensitive people.
